

Title: Women and supervisory authority in the Netherlands, 1985-2008: Trends and explanations

Authors

Lieselotte Blommaert (corresponding author)¹

Tanja van der Lippe²

Ineke Maas^{2,3}

Eva Jaspers²

¹ Department of Sociology, Radboud University, Nijmegen, the Netherlands

² Department of Sociology, Utrecht University, Utrecht, the Netherlands

³ Department of Sociology, VU University, Amsterdam, the Netherlands

Correspondence address

Department of Sociology, Radboud University, Nijmegen, the Netherlands

Postal address: P.O. box 9104, 6500 HE, Nijmegen, the Netherlands

E-mail address: l.blommaert@maw.ru.nl

Key words: gender inequality, labor market, job authority, trend

 Draft prepared for ISOL seminar April 2015. Please do not cite. *****

 Note to ISOL attendees**

We plan to make the multilevel analyses the main analyses. The order and content of the discussion and conclusions sections may seem odd, but corresponds to the format of the journal we will send the paper to. There is no word limit for this journal, but do you consider it desirable anyway that we shorten the paper? We will probably drop hypotheses 5a and b, because the argumentation there (almost) completely runs through the individual level / composition. However, the only time we do find a context effect it is for this variable (in the ordered logistic analyses).